Yates Trophy Changes Hands

Catching The Fatted Calf

by LENNY FLANZ

The Queen's Golden Gaels seemingly out-passed, out-ran, and out-classed the McGill Redmen on Saturday afternoon to the tune of eleven to zero, to bring the coveted Yates trophy back to Kingston for the first time since 1956.

In winning, the Gaels displayed a fine balance of offensive power and great defensive strength. Undoubtedly, Queen's magnificent defensive performance was one of the major factors in the contest, bringing back memories of last year's championship game, when the Red and White defensive corps completely stymied the Tricolor's offense.

The victory climaxed one of the most successful seasons ever for the Queen'smen. Frank Tyndall's boys roared through the year compiling a great record of six victories and only one defeat. No doubt the championship tasted extra sweet to the Gaels for several reasons.

REASONS

First, it's always good to be a winner; but over and above all this it was the Redmen, who only last week marred the unblemished record of an otherwise perfect season.

Second, it was the Redmen who came from behind last year to pull the grid iron rug from beneath the feet of the Gaels and cap the championship.

Third, feeling runs high on the Kingston campus among the students and the players, concerning the few Americans on the McGill squad. Overt evidence of this latter point was the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the Queen's students before the game, and a "slanted" sports column in the Queen's Journal a week ago.

For these reasons, and perhaps more, the victory on Saturday was sweet. But the Gaels deserved this win; they were easily the better team on Saturday and surely the more consistent, in a positive sense, of these two clubs all seasons. The Gaels were rough and ready; they had the desire to win and they were determined to leave nothing to chance. They made their own breaks and the very least that can be said is that they earned their victory.

FIRST QUARTER

For the major part of the first quarter, Queen's kept McGill bottled up in their own half of the field; indeed, with the exception of the very beginning of the quarter, the Redmen could scarcely penetrate further than their own 25 yard line for the first fifteen minutes.

Linebacker Steve Longstaff recovered a Queen's fumble on the McGill 22 but on the next play from scrimmage, Eric Walter fumbled the pigskin and the Gaels took over on the Red and White's 13 yard line.

Connor scampered 13 yards for the touchdown without a hand being laid on him. The convert attempt by Gary Strickler was successful and Queen's took a 7-0 lead with about twelve minutes expired in the game.

A series of six plays from scrimmage early in the second quarter brought the Redmen from their own 26 to the Queen's 14. During Six Redmen charge in to stop a Gael runner. The entire line managed to close in on this ball carrier, but the team could not hold together to pull out a victory as Queen's took the coveted Yates Cup from McGill with an 11-0 shutout. In last year's playoff game, McGill beat Queen's 21-0.

MCWA Opens Today

One hundred delegates from over forty universities across Canada and the U.S. will arrive today for the fifth annual McGill Conference on World Affairs.

The opening Keynote Address of the Conference will be given by Dr. Alfred G. Meyer, Professor international fame as an authority on Soviet Communism. He received his M.A. and Ph. D. degrees from Harvard University in 1946 and 1950 respectively.

Before coming to Michigan State University, he taught at Harvard, University of Washington and Hunter College. His position at these universities included that of Assistant Director at Harvard's Russian Research Center, and Director of the Research Center on the History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union at Columbia.

AUTHOR

A prolific writer, Professor Meyer has authored: "The Incompatible Allies (with Gustav Hilger); "Leninism"; a paper back volume called "Communism"; and the book for which he is best known, "Marxism — The Unity of Theory and Practice." At the present time, the academic world is awaiting his newest book which will be on the Soviet political system.

In addition to Dr. Meyer's Address, the delegates will hear three other Keynote Speakers, as well as participate in two days of round table seminar sessions, to which most of the discussion and debate will be orientated.

On Tuesday night, Professor William Y. Elliott of Harvard University will deliver the second keynote Address on the topic: "Communism: The Nature of the Challenge".

At 4 pm on Wednesday, His Excellency Amasap A. Aroutunian, Soviet Ambassador to Canada will deliver an address on the topic: "Peaceful Coexistence Among States"; and on Wednesday evening, Mr. Harry Schwartz, specialist on Soviet Affairs for the New York Times will deliver the closing address on the topic, "The West: How Shall We Respond?"

All four keynote speeches are open to the public and will be held in Redpath Hall.

SOVIET DELEGATES

When questioned as to whether the Soviet delegates from the University of Moscow would be arriving, a spokesman for the Conference Committee said: "We received a letter from the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa to the effect that the Soviet delegates, Messrs.

Parkin and Churbaryan, were ready to depart from Russia on Nov. 17 providing they were issued appropriate visas.

"Upon checking with the Department of Immigration in Ottawa, we were informed that visas had been issued and notice to this effect had been cabled to the Canadian Embassy in Moscow by November 17.

One question, at this point, does not seem to be whether the Soviet students will be granted visas to attend the Conference; rather, it is a question of whether, having been granted visas, they want to come."

Kingston Jaunt Still A Success Says Everybody

It was a day to remember; it was a day to forget.

When the Big Red Train limped back into Central Station Saturday Night it brought with it some 1200 beaten, broken, defeated, but nevertheless high-spirited Redmen supporters.

Well over 1600 McGill fans made the trek into the heart of the Limestone Country to witness the savage battle. It is estimated that a similar number of rolls of toilet paper made the trip.

When the morning train pulled into Kingston station (which is currently being renovated—in case you wondered why facilities were not exactly up to scratch) it was greeted by scores of cheering fans who had somehow arrived previously.

CONVOY

A convoy of a dozen busses then proceeded to cart the fans off to the stadium by an extremely de-

Major World Problem Is Growth — Copland

by HERB ARONOFF

The major problem facing the modern Western world is growth, said Sir Douglas Copland, President of the Australian Administrative Staff College last Thursday in the first of three Beatty Memorial Lectures which he is giving here.

He attributed this problem to what he calls "death control", which he explained as "more people who are born will live—and they will live longer."

Under the general topic "The Changing Structure of the Western Economy" his first address concerned the mixed economy of the West and its development.

Maintaining that growth is the "theme song" of every country today, Sir Douglas went on to show that the world's present population of 3,000 million will double in 40 years, and he wondered if we are ready to accept the challenge.

PUBLIC ENTERPRISE

To solve this approaching problem, Sir Douglas contended that public enterprise was the answer. "More public enterprise is not being socialistic, it is being intelligent."

He chided those who believe that private enterprise has made the greatest contribution to the growth of the Western world by calling their belief a "lingering nostalgia". He stated that unless we adjust to the problems that face us, we are wasting valuable resources.

Feeling that security was not the chief aim of life, Sir Douglas mentioned a number of solutions that would help remedy the approaching problems of the West. Copland first suggested that each country have a "plan" which would present methods of putting national resources to the best possible use.

POST A BOND

So that citizens would feel that they had a part in the government of their country, Copland suggested that a bond be posted to counterbalance the increased taxes resulting from more public investment. This bond would be negotiable only upon the death of the holder.

He also stated that a Fourth Estate be formed consisting of a country's elder statesmen from all fields. These would review national problems and present suggestions to the government. In closing, Sir Douglas apologized for the fact that, if this idea were accepted, the Press would be relegated to a Fifth Estate.

The next lecture in the Beatty Series will be held in the Gym tomorrow, at 8:30 pm.

the sequence, full-back Milligan carried the ball four times while Don Taylor and Willie Lambert successfully completed Skyeck passes.

SQUELCHED

On the next play, however, operating from the spread formation, Skyeck's pass was intercepted by Gary West on the 2 yard line, and the McGill threat was squelched.

Late in the second quarter, Skyeck combined with Bob Winsor and Walter, moved the ball from McGill's 25 all the way to the Gaels 25. At this point however, there were only 42 seconds left to play in the half; a completed pass to Winsor moved the ball the 17 but the next two pass attempts went uncompleted in the end zone and time ran out.

The Redmen opened up quickly in the third frame, moving the ball to the Gaels 43 yard line. But disaster struck again on the next play as the Redmen fumbled and once again the ever alert Gaels pounced on the ball on their own 44.

The charging Queen's linemen set up the next scoring play of the game as they deflected and caught a Skyeck pass at the line of scrimmage on the McGill 42. In six plays, five along the ground and one incomplete pass, Queen's marched down to the Redmen 11. The Gaels ran out of steam momentarily and had to settle for an 18 yard field goal by Strickler, to give them a 10-0 edge.

CLOSING MINUTES

In the closing minutes of the third quarter, Tom Revak recovered a fumble by the Gaels on Queen's 45 but McGill could advance only as far as the 23 before giving up the ball on downs when Whitey Reimer, substituting for Willie Lambert, was thrown for a loss on the third down.

Norm Dunstan set up the Gaels eleventh point when he intercepted a Skyeck pass on the McGill 27 and ran the ball to the 20. The Gaels stalled on the first two downs but Gary West booted a single to close out the scoring.

Although the Redmen could not win the big one and although many of us are disappointed, nevertheless, the big Red team deserves a lot of credit. They tried their best and played their hearts out, for their school and you the students. We would like to take this opportunity to say, for ourselves and for the many others who do not have the opportunity to express their sentiments publicly, thank you Redmen, for a great season!

vicious route, and under a police escort.

As the result of an obvious attempt at reducing McGill spirit, the Band found itself locked out of the room in which it was supposed to change, and hence arrived after the opening kickoff.

A check under the stands at half-time revealed (besides broken bottles) enough toilet paper to stretch from Montreal to Kingston. The poor Queen'smen didn't know what to do with it and began pelting it at people as they walked by below.

A valiant attempt to hold their goalposts failed as a few McGillians snatched them after all the Queen'smen had left to parade downtown.

The trip back was highlighted by a survey by Daily reporters to determine which car was the darkest. It was a 20-way tie.

Ban On Speeches By Communists Protested

NEW YORK, N.Y. (CUP/UPS)—Students at New York's City College have expressed their disapproval of the recent ban on Communist speakers by staging massive demonstrations which included boycotting classes and picketing at three of the colleges.

The protests followed a decision by New York City University that it would be breaking the law, if it allowed known Communists to speak on the campus.

According to the Hunter Arrow (a campus paper) picket lines at the two campuses of Hunter College, in the Bronx and in Manhattan, and at City College included approximately 1,000 students. An estimated 1,200 students boycotted classes at Hunter's Bronx campus, and it was reported that some classes at the other two colleges were dismissed because of the light attendance.

JOIN IN CHORUS

Faculty members and other non-students have joined in the chorus of protest against the banning. Communist Party secretary, Ben Davis, the first speaker banned under a temporary policy, which gave rise to the present permanent ban, gave a speech which was recorded for delivery at City College. In his speech, Davis warned that if the ban remains "academic freedom will go out the window."

In a speech at Columbia University, Davis also thanked the municipal colleges for "more publicity than all the gold in Moscow could have paid for." He also said that since the ban, the Communist Party telephones are ringing constantly.

Laval Conference Closes

by SY STEINMAN

The Laval Conference on Canadian Affairs closed in the provincial capital Saturday, after four speech-filled days attended by the 65 delegates from universities in all ten provinces.

After hearing Hon. Rene Levesque warn English Canadians that "You need us more than we need you" and that the federal government has been growing rich and fat during the past forty years at the expense of the provincial governments, the delegates listened to the Premier Jean Lesage.

The Premier declared that Confederation has neither succeeded nor failed. This was so because the provinces have never exercised the powers given to them under the BNA Act.

OBLIGATIONS

The Province of Quebec will use these powers to fulfill its obligations to its citizens. During the war the provincial governments had ceded many powers to the federal government. These must be returned to their proper place as there now exists a "provincial urgency" which must be satisfied.

He warned that if Confederation continues in its present course it will certainly fail, because it will not yield the results it should and thereby lose its raison d'être. It will succeed if it is re-orientated.

SEPARATIST

Marcel Chaput, leader of the separatist movement, "Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale" spoke opposite Prof. Michael Oliver of McGill University.

"French Canada is a nation and wants to be treated as such", he said. French Canada has been under English-Canadian servitude for 200 years. She now wants to be master of her own destiny. This is her natural right."

Saskatchewan Sheaf Drops CUP Membership

SASKATOON (CUP) — The Sheaf, campus newspaper of the University of Saskatchewan, has been forced to drop its membership in Canadian University Press because the Students' Representative Council refused to grant the paper money for its CUP fees.

Lionel Wilson, editor of the bi-weekly paper, said that he is completely in favor of CUP. The SRC notified Canadian University Press in Ottawa that the Student's Council "rejected membership in CUP for the present term", but did not give any reasons for the action.

The action was taken last Monday night at a meeting at which Wilson was not present. The SRC's motion refused to allow the Sheaf to join CUP this year, stating that the SRC would not pay the membership fee to CUP, nor pay into the travel pool. Membership and Travel Pool Fees for the Sheaf amount to $290.

RIDICULOUS

Wilson said "It is ridiculous to withdraw before the conference, since after the conference, the Sheaf's opinion of CUP would, if anything, be more favorable. At any rate, the council would be in a better position to make a judgement on CUP after receiving the report of the conference."

"The Sheaf would like to emphasize that the withdrawal is only due to the ignorance and incompetence of the SRC."

NOVEMBER 20, 1961

MCWA 5

Today a hundred delegates from universities all across Canada and the United States will gather together at McGill University for the Fifth Annual Conference on World Affairs. In the next three days, they will be addressed by four keynote speakers and will participate in two days of intensive seminar discussions. The theme of their discussion will be the conference topic: "Russian and the West: Challenge and Response."

It is true that MCWA is no longer fettered with the glamour and applause that accompanied its original inception five years ago; it is true that it is no longer greeted with the enthusiasm accorded to a novel and creative idea; but it is also true that it has lost none of its importance and vitality, and that its discussions this year will be as significant as all others held in its short history.

The recent increase in international tensions, the tragic death of U.N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjöld, and the emergence of new and turbulent states in Africa and Asia have all combined to create an uneasy and sensitive world atmosphere. It is an atmosphere that is better off not met with glamour and applause; that is not examined in a Conference coated with an aura of superficiality; but one that is approached seriously and analytically, and therefore perhaps, creatively. We cannot demand much more; we should not be satisfied with much less.

The natural question, at this point, is this: What is the relation or significance of the McGill Conference on World Affairs for the McGill Student body in general? Its significance, in terms of its institutionalization at McGill and the prestige which it brings to the university is readily apparent; but its relation to the student body, though not so readily apparent, is perhaps more significant: for the Conference affords an opportunity for every student to gain an insight into problems which if he may not be destined to solve, he is nevertheless destined to be involved in. It is true that MCWA is channelled toward the delegates in attendance from all over Canada and the United States; it is not true that this precludes the involvement of the student body in general.

The statement of purpose by the Conference Committee attests this fact in the following words: We do not propose to find all the answers to all the questions; we will perhaps not even ask all the questions that should be asked; but we do hope to emerge from this Conference with a greater understanding and awareness of the world situation in which we find ourselves today; and with the further hope that we shall have succeeded in educating both the student body and general public in what is surely one of the most pressing questions of our time.

Soviet Communism today commands one-third of the human race as its adherents; it aims to convert the rest; and its rate of conversion has been greater than any other comparable political or ideological force in history. The challenge of Communism cannot be understood without an understanding of the ideas and practices which are its motivating force; and the response cannot be understood without an examination of our capability to respond.

It is this problem which this year MCWA's has chosen as the object of its concern; it will fail unless this concern is shared by the McGill student body.

Who Turned Out The Lights?

This unidentified supporter was found asleep immediately after the train left Central Station. A check of CNR regulations does not verify our assumption, but we assumed that he came with the train.

The Teenee Is Caving In

Enthusiastic souls wander through Central Station early last Saturday morning. The huge banner was to little avail as the mob boarded the 20-car train on track 13 and that old "13" followed them around all day.

Don't Even Win Goalposts — At First

Hundreds of McGill fans (almost 2,000 made the trip) rushed the goalposts after the game but failed to win them against the helmeted and rejoicing Queen's men. Being trickier than the Queen's gang, however, McGill stalwarts returned to the deserted field later and made off with the timber.

The oldest Redman (rumour has it, he is Lloyd George) of them all watches as an over-exuberant student receives first aid after losing battle with the barber. The fellow was getting a haircut at the station when he jumped from the chair at the "All Aboard" signal. Actually, some grad. nurse is just using him to demonstrate her usefulness.

"Got A Cigarette?"

Some of the cars on the train were fairly crowded and some of the passengers, a little unsteady — bumpy tracks, you know — so seating was difficult. The fellow in the dark sweater just dropped in for a chat. (Try looking at this photo from other angles.)

... And Baby Makes Three

Two amazed Redmen supporters sit misty-eyed in the stands as the Golden Gaels rack up up the points. Their friend from U of T doesn't seem to be affected by the setback.

The Four Horshmen

These four idiots appear to be celebrating the fact that they have missed the train, as the track is bare. However, Kingston, believe it or not, has more than one track and the train was on the other side. They really were celebrating — the photo was taken before the game.

One For The Money, Two For The ...

This fellow is taking a swig of milk on the train before the game. Never drinking anything stronger than milk, he was ribbed by his fellow travellers, but none wished to taste the liquid to verify his claim. Funny though — they had to carry him off.

Low Moss

If elected SEC Representative I shall carry out exactly what the title infers — I shall represent YOU! In conjunction with my firm intention, I propose the following: a) Monthly open meetings of all A. & S. students to be held possibly in Moyse Hall, with the purpose of discussing any and all faculty problems. In this manner, true student representation and participation could be fulfilled. b) A new Union in our day, accessible to the majority, not the minority. c) Copies of the minutes of all SEC meetings available in sufficient numbers to interested students, along with copies of the constitutions of all major organizations on campus.

PEN SKETCH

We definitely feel Low has all the necessary qualities to be a competent and constructive SEC Representative, as exhibited by his past record. He graduated high school in the top twenty of his class, and was elected twice to its Student Council.

While at McGill he has held many responsible positions. Low is presently Sports Editor of the Daily, following two years of active participation. He was Clinic Chairman of the Blood Drive, played first-string two years on the Football Indians, is presently House Chairman of his fraternity, and is a member of the SAC Board.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

Myer "Butch" Shimelman

As your SEC representative, I will endeavour to serve your interests to the best of my abilities. With this in mind, I intend to: 1) support the New Union and insist that a section be set aside as an International Center, thus making it an integral part of the Students' Center. 2) look into the finances of the SEC to determine why many clubs had their budgets unexplainedly cut when the SEC has a surplus of $35,000. 3) initiate a general information program on the workings of the SEC and the various clubs on campus.

Basically then, I propose a greater unity on campus; a more equitable distribution of SEC funds; and greater participation in, and information on, campus activities.

PEN SKETCH

We feel that Butch is the ideal candidate for the position by virtue of his keen interest in student activities, organizational experience, and scholastic achievements.

An Honours Student and professional newspaper writer, Butch has won two scholarships from McGill, and last year he went undefeated in the MIT Senior Debating Tournament. Butch's executive experience includes: Chairman of Public Debates; Vice-chairman of Intercollegiate Debates; Combined Charities; EUS executive; EUS senior and novice debating champion; Blood Drive and Winter Carnival.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

In my conception of student government the SEC member must a) represent his faculty on Council from experience on that faculty executive b) play an active role in overall student government.

Keeping in mind that each member has only one vote, I will not make vague or extravagant promises. However, I do propose the following: (1) departmental reorganization of ASUS to promote activities for students with similar interests, (2) informing students of what their Council is doing on their behalf by: a) sending SEC minutes to interested students, b) posting SEC minutes in public places c) being available Monday noon (Union) and Thursday noon (RVC) to discuss matters of faculty interest and SEC decisions.

If elected I pledge responsible and consistent representation realizing the purpose of Council is not amusement and glory of the members but student benefit.

PEN SKETCH

A third year Science student with a consistently high academic average, Carole's activities include:

a) Co-chairman ASUS Blood Drive Committee '60-'61, b) Secretary ASUS '60-'61, c) First Vice-President ASUS '61-'62, d) Women's Debating Chairman — Debating Union, e) Resident Member-at-Large — Women's Union, f) MCWA Secretary, g) Red Wings.

Dentistry

Thomas V. Holmes

I feel sincerely honored to have been nominated as SEC representative from the Faculty of Dentistry. Being somewhat older than most of my colleagues, I bring into this campaign a "Career" with a myriad of facets. Academically, I have earned a B.Sc. in Architectural Engineering and a B. Sc. in Natural Sciences, and I have spent one year in Graduate studies. I have been inducted into ODK and Alpha Epsilon Delta.

In past years I have held membership in numerous collegiate, religious, professional, military, and civic organizations — having been an officer in many of these.

During each of my three years at McGill, I have had the privilege of serving as one of the class officers. Now, I would earnestly solicit your vote for Representative to the SEC. If the members of the Dental Faculty should see fit to award me this honour, I should endeavor to lend to the office the degree of attention and dignity which it rightly deserves. It would be my intention to offer to the Executive Council whatever abilities I may possess, at the same time maintaining the interests of my fellow faculty members and keeping them informed of pertinent proceedings of the Council.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

Donald R. Kramer

If elected, I shall endeavor to achieve a closer liaison between the dental faculty and the student body at large, and to serve the students in dentistry to the best of my abilities. Particularly, I wish to: (1) obtain for the D.U.S. a higher percentage of the $15.60 which each dental student contributes to the S.E.C. At present, $5.00 per student is received in grants and assistance. (2) encourage the establishment of a student library of dental texts at the dental clinic at the Montreal General Hospital, and to improve the existing dental library in the Medical Building. (3) have the D.U.S. representative to the S.E.C. take office at the beginning of the school year rather than in January, as is now the case. (4) keep the dental students better informed in their role as members of the Student's Society. (5) allocate more funds for the purchasing of equipment of an educational value to the dental faculty.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

Hoopsters Meet Sir George

by MIKE LEVENSON

The McGill Redmen will square off against their perennial rivals, the powerful Sir George Williams Georgians, on Tuesday night at the Northmount High School Gymnasium.

Thus far the Redmen have been impressive as a team. Serious weaknesses have been noticeable however, especially in their game against the Loyola Warriors last week. Although the Warriors were a taller and bigger team, the Redmen should have defeated them by more than 13 points.

The most obvious shortcoming on the McGill side in the Loyola contest was shooting. In the shooting department the Redmen were weak, except in spots wherein they looked invincible. This shooting problem, if it is a problem, must be overcome and must be overcome before the game against the Georgians.

McGill is also faced with the serious problem of rebounding. The team hasn't the required height to be strong in this department, although the game last week didn't reveal this to the full extent of its seriousness.

Now that the football season is finally over, the Redmen are hoping to improve the squad's rebounding. Ian Monteith, a star with the gridders will change uniforms and become the backbone of the rebounders. Ian proved himself to be a powerful and effective man in this department last season.

BERKMAN PRIMISING

Bob Berkman is playing his first season in Canadian basketball circles. Being an American, Bob is having difficulty adapting to the more rigid rules under which basketball is played in this country. Last week against Loyola, Berkman was benched at the ten minute mark of the first half with four personal fouls. Suffice it to say that Berkman is more valuable to the team on the floor than on the bench.

In spite of these drawbacks, McGill is an improved team over last year. Ben Shore and George Miechowsky are looking as good, if not better than last season. These two, coupled with the addition of Doyle Perkins, who was outstanding against Loyola, Bob Berkman, Ron Horeck and Jack Walker have helped to solidify the Redmen into a contending team.

VETERAN GEORGIAN

The Georgians always strong in the past, have certainly not weakened. Last year Sir George defeated the Redmen in three out of five games.

The addition of Bob Hebert has considerably strengthened Sir George. Bob played basketball for the Canadian Maccabiah team, along with Willie Epstein, also a Georgian. Both Epstein and Hebert are strong rebounders and good shooters, and will hurt the Redmen where they are most vulnerable — on the back boards.

Sy Ludurman and Bob Watson, are both veterans with the Georgians and will require close watching by the Red and White. Bob has an accurate left-handed push shot while Ludurman is also dangerous from the outside at times.

The most serious loss suffered by the Georgians is in the person of Harold "Sonny" Gordon. After a great deal of searching for a replacement for the valuable guard, the Georgians came up with a young American from Rutgers. Both he and Sol Apel, will be instrumental in setting up the big men.

Sir George have played one game so far this season. This was against an American team from Albany, New York, and the Georgians were decided victors.

Tuesday's game will be a crucial one for both team's. The winner could very possibly continue on to cop the city championship.

Psi U's Beat Phi Eps For Touchfootball Title

On a muddy, rain-drenched Upper Field on Friday afternoon, Psi Upsilon copped the 1961 version of the Inter-Fraternity Touch Football League title by eking out a 7-0 decision over a stubborn Phi Epsilon Pi team.

All the scoring took place in the early part of the first half of play, with the scoreless second half being a see-saw affair between the two teams' 20 yard lines.

FIRST & LAST TD

Psi U's quarterback, Al Smith, threw a nice pass to back Bob Brown who made a beautiful grab of the pigskin, carrying the ball over the goal line for the initial and final tally of the game. Smith also passed for the convert, finding end Fritz all alone in the end-zone. Although neither team organized a serious scoring threat during the remainder of the half, the Psi U's seemed to have a definite edge on play over the first thirty minutes of play.

The second half turned into an evenly matched contest, with neither team controlling the ball for long sustained drives. Phi Ep's quarterback, Al Alexrod played well but was constantly being rushed by the bigger Psi Upsilon line, led by Ian Motherwell and Ted Evans. Motherwell and Evans seemed to have very little trouble in breaking through the Phi Eps line, causing Alexrod to hurry his passes or "eat" the ball.

STAND-OUTS

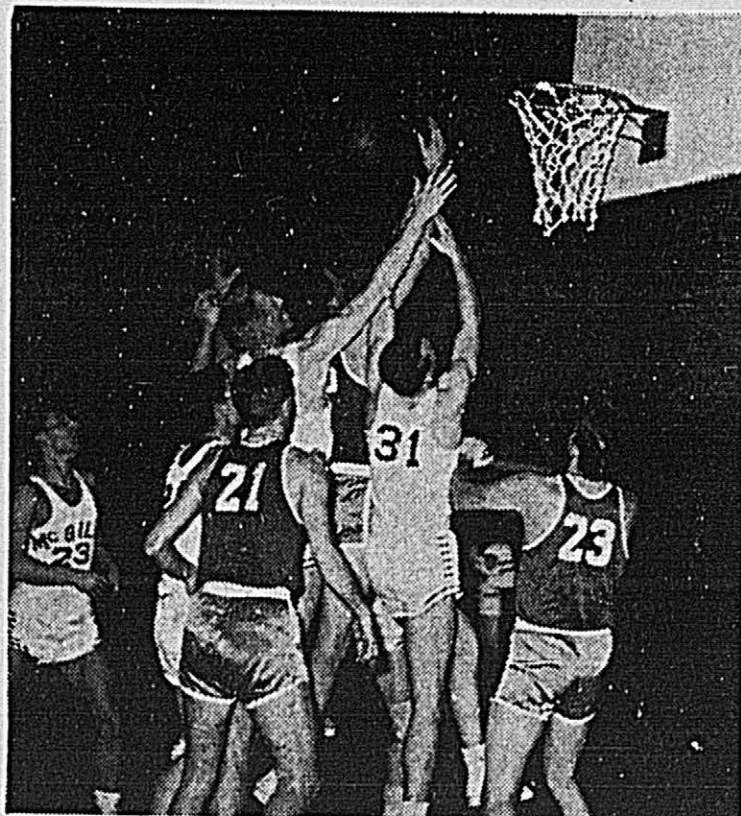

End Saul Miller and flanker back Rick Blatt both played an outstanding game for the losers, while the aforementioned Motherwell and Evans, along with Brown and Smith, starred for the 1961 fraternity champions in touchfootball, Psi Upsilon Fraternity.

Redmen Hockey Face-Off: Nov. 29

The McGill Redmen Hockey team opens its 1961 season on Nov. 29 against University of Montreal at the latter's Paul Sauve Arena.

Reaching For The Moon

The Redmen Hoopsters will engage a talented Sir George Williams University team in what could very well be a repeat of last year's frantic final between these two squads, in which the Georgians copped the City title. Tuesday's game will be played at the Northmount High School gym at 8:15 pm. A large turnout would greatly enhance the team's chances of victory.

New IBM Products mean

New Opportunities for Sales Representatives

The introduction of the IBM Selectric, an entirely new kind of typewriter, and the IBM Executary, a new concept in dictation equipment, has necessitated broad expansion in our Typewriter Division. We require additional personnel to sell this equipment and also the IBM 632 Electronic Typing Calculator, a combined typing and calculating system for small companies.

The positions we have to offer are not ordinary selling jobs; they are career opportunities. Starting with Sales Representatives, they can lead to executive status in the IBM organization.

Representatives will be given a complete training program. The salary is good; commissions and bonuses are added. Extensive company financed employee benefits and pensions are provided.
